

Classical Conditioning

When an organism learns to respond to a new stimulus in a manner that before was a reflex response to another stimulus, classical conditioning has occurred.

